Distribution Release: Q4OS 6.1

The Q4OS team have published a new stable version of their lightweight, Debian-based operating system. "Q4OS 'Andromeda' is based on Debian 'Trixie' 13.1 and Plasma 6.3.6, optionally Trinity 14.1.5 desktop environment, and it's immediately available for 64-bit/x64 computers. An aarch64 edition is also planned for later. According to Debian upstream, the 32-bit/i386 'Andromeda' edition will not be available. However, we recommend using Q4OS 5 'Aquarius' for older i386 systems. We will continue to offer three years of support for the 32-bit edition of 'Aquarius' until June 2028. We intentionally keep the Plasma desktop appearance as the stock one; however, those who love Q4OS brand should switch to Q4OS's dedicated 'Debonaire' theme in the system settings. It's a simple step and you get a stylish Q4OS look-and-feel of your desktop session." Additional details can be found in the
